

Doctor of Ministry Degree

(See the TBS 2006-2007 Catalog, Pp. 80-83)

Description

The Doctor of Ministry (D.Min.) is an advanced professional degree. The Doctor of Ministry program is designed for ministry professionals who desire to excel in the practice of ministry. Participants in the program are afforded the opportunity for advanced education while remaining active in their local ministries. The Doctor of Ministry presupposes ministerial experience and a Master of Divinity or its equivalent. Students holding M.M., M.A.C.E., or M.A.B.S., may build on each of these degrees with additional course work toward each successively higher level masters degree until reaching the M.Div. or its equivalency. Those entering the program on the M.Div. equivalency basis may remove deficiencies while enrolled in the D.Min. program with special permission from the Administration.

While the Doctor of Ministry program is general in scope and intent, participants are encouraged to select one of the following focuses:

Department of Pastoral Studies

- Pastoral Theology Focus - Pastoral Leadership Emphasis - Expository Preaching Emphasis
- Chaplaincy Focus - Military

Department of Discipleship Studies

- Discipleship Focus - Local Church Emphasis - Christian School Emphasis
- Missions Focus

Goals

The goals for the D.Min. degree include “an advanced understanding of the nature and purposes of ministry, enhanced competencies in pastoral analysis and ministerial skills, the integration of these dimensions into the theologically reflective practice of ministry, new knowledge about the practice of ministry, and continued growth in spiritual maturity.” (Association of Theological Schools Bulletin No. 45, 2002, p. 114).

The educational objectives of the Doctor of Ministry program are the following:

1. To develop the skills and abilities possessed by the minister so that he will have a higher level of excellence, balance, and competence in the ministry.
2. To inculcate in him an awareness of the modern-day problems and issues in the church and in society and to equip him to meet those challenges.
3. To integrate Biblical and theological principles with practical and experimental factors, thus to achieve a true Biblical perspective in ministry.

Special Policies and Procedures

A. Class format

Doctoral modular classes are offered in a five-day format of four hours either in the morning or in the afternoon. These modules are offered in January, June, and August. Courses also may be taken through residency in the fall and spring semesters and/or through distance education.

B. Course requirements

Requirements vary according to the nature of the course and the expectations of various teachers. The following are some of the types of assignments which may be required:

1. Reading of assigned material prior to the first day of class.
2. Research or reports during the week of class sessions.
3. Tests over class material, either during the week or sometime after its completion.
4. A project or paper related to some aspect of the course, due on a date assigned by the professor.

C. Modular course policies

1. Projects, reports of completed reading assignments, etc. should be sent to the Seminary office.
2. All modular course work is due by the following dates:
 - a. January modules - April 15
 - b. June modules - October 15
 - c. August modules - November 15
3. Work turned in late may receive a grading penalty according to the amount of time it exceeds the due date.

D. The field project

The field project is an integral part of the total D.Min. program. It is designed to assist the participant in relating Biblical principles to the practice of ministry. Four hours are assigned to the project. After completing 26 hours of D.Min. course study, the student must register for the course DM-830 (Doctoral Project) the very next semester or pay continuation fee. The student must register for DM-830 every semester to maintain continuous enrollment until the project is completed and approved. NC (No Credit) will be assigned for DM-830 until the field project is approved. DM-829 (Research Design and Procedures) is a prerequisite for DM-830.
